KHRUSHCHEV'S SUMMIT BID TURNED DOWN BY KENNEDY

Glenn Resting For Appearances

GOP Seeks Plan To Avoid Primary Fight

HARRISBURG, Pa. UPI — Pennsylvania Republicans today reviewed a series of plans and maneuvers designed to patch up their badly torn party in time for the May 15 primary.

The latest proposal — a statewide "grass roots" sampling on candidates for governor — was advanced yesterday by seven central Pennsylvania county chairmen meeting in nearby Mechanicsburg. Their plan is to bring all county chairmen and party leaders together in a "general meeting," report the results of the poll, and then tap the man who comes out on top.

Meeting were GOP chairmen from Franklin, Cumberland, Perry, Lebanon, Juniata, Mifflin and York counties. They said their own polls have shown "much displeasure" with the present bickering "while strongly urging a compromise candidate for governor."

In a joint statement, the chairmen said:

"We do not relish a primary

Good Evening!

Clouds still hanging mighty low.

You think that maybe sometime the sun's going to shine again?

Gentle trade winds fanning the Phillies as they get their first full-fledged workout at Clearwater today and we envy 'em.

Next time we're going to grow up to be a ball player.

Lt. Col. John Glenn honored by President Kennedy, by the nation.

Quite a day it was for him yesterday and don't think for a moment he didn't earn all of the glory. We've a hunch, however, that he found it easier and more relaxing whizzing around the globe.

Well sir, it begins to appear Mr. Dilworth will be the Democratic candidate for governor, what with even Lawrence reportedly ready to back him. Philadelphia Boss Bill Green farther and farther out in left field and nobody cares.

State GOPer Chairman George Bloom still scampering around for a compromise in the Republican primary situation. Let's just hope Hugh Scott doesn't get mouse-trapped in this one. High time for the New Guard to turn the Old Guard out to pasture—for keeps.

Doylestown's Attorney Bob Valimont still undecided about running for state senator, we see by the papers.

We dunno. Maybe he should team with Jim Michener, determined to go to Congress. If he did, the county Democrats would have a combo of which they could be proud and the people of Bucks County wouldn't have to worry too much about the outcome of the November election.

If you must cry over spilled milk, condense it.

Even if you convert it into travelers' checks, you still can't take it with you.

If you drive over the weekend, be careful. Please?

Go to church tomorrow.

Acclaim Renews Monday

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Astronaut John Glenn temporarily vanished for a rest today before embarking on a round of public appearances so strenuous that he probably will long for the loneliness of an orbital flight.

Federal space agency officials, anxious to give the astronaut a period of relaxation after this incredible week in his life, refused to say where he had gone with his family after leaving here Friday.

But the period of rest will be short-lived. Waiting for him were countless demands for public appearances as the rest of the country prepared to give him the acclaim due to a genuine national hero. The start of it will come on Monday, when he goes to Washington to address a joint session of Congress and receive the capital's applause.

Parade In New York

The following day he will appear before congressional space committees to discuss the three-orbit flight last Tuesday that made American space history.

Later in the week, he is to take part with the other astronauts in an enormous ticker tape parade in New York City, just as Charles A. Lindbergh did when he established another milestone in 1927 by flying the Atlantic.

And these appearances are only the beginning for the modest, 47-year-old redhead who told President Kennedy two weeks ago that he felt too much attention was being paid to him and not enough to the scientific aspects of Project Mercury.

Kennedy himself tried to put Glenn at ease on this score during Friday's hectic ceremonies on the Cape. Referring to Glenn's protest against the publicity involving himself, the President said:

"My own feeling is that both are equally important, in the sense that we are proud of this

Last-Ditch Rightist Move

De Gaulle Maps Plan In Case Of Revolt

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle summoned his top military commanders today, apparently to map strategy to combat a possible last-ditch rightist revolt when the Algerian cease-fire is announced.

The cease-fire is expected within a week. The French government already has approved the terms of the French-Algerian rebel provisional government, indicated the Algerians may approve the terms of the agreement this weekend, with the cease-fire announcement coming shortly thereafter.

The rebels' National Council (CNRA) is meeting in Tripoli, Libya, to discuss the terms. Observers said the meeting would last at least until Sunday night. There was no report on the meeting, but Tunis sources were optimistic.

De Gaulle met Friday with the commanding generals of France's nine military regions. Attending this morning's session were three admirals and four air force generals.

There was no government explanation of the meetings. But it was assumed De Gaulle was planning security measures against a possible insurrection by

$200 Loss Caused In Levittown Blaze

Firemen from Levittown Fire Co. No. 2, last night extinguished another chimney fire, the first to occur in Levittown's Indian Creek section. Damages were estimated at about $200.

The fire was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Goodman of 67 Ironwood Road, Indian Creek, Levittown.

The Goodmans and their son, Robert, 10, were at home at 11 p.m. when Goodman smelled something burning.

Calls Firemen

Mrs. Goodman called the fire company and 30 firemen, Chief Vincent Latronica and assistant chief Bill Winters arrived as Mrs. Goodman was still on the telephone.

Leonard Newman, Bristol Township building inspector, also arrived at the Goodman home.

Firemen had to remove and raise the entire chimney to get to the furnace starter box where the fire was burning. The starter box is located between the ceiling and second floor in the kitchen.

On fire was insulation packed around the chimney at the frame support assembly holding the starter box to the rafters, Newman said.

Study Origin

The township official said this was the first fire where they had an opportunity to study the area where it started while it was still burning.

Newman said the cool air pas-

Kennedys Arrive In German Capital

BONN, West Germany (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy landed at nearby Wahn Airport today on a flight from West Berlin and immediately transferred to a helicopter for the rest of the trip into the West German capital.

Kennedy and his wife, Ethel, wound up a triumphal two-day visit to West Bierln and flew here aboard an Air Force Constellation.

Before leaving the divided city, Kennedy said he was "impressed with the courage and spirit of the Berliners. I think there is no question that Berlin and the whole Western world will prevail."

His younger brother, Edward (Ted) Kennedy, flew here with the attorney general and his wife. They planned to remain in the capital for 24 hours before flying on to Amsterdam Friday.

Receive Warmest Welcome

The Kennedys received the warmest welcome ever given visitors in West Berlin. Hundreds of thousands of West Berliners cheered them on their trips through the city.

The West Berlin tabloid B. Z. said today in an editorial that "Ethel Kennedy capitvated Berlin with charm and chic."

East Berliners waved greetings to Kennedy when he visited the U.S. Army's Checkpoint Charlie on the East-West Berlin border shortly before he took off for Bonn this morning.

He waved back but did not enter the Eastern sector as his younger brother, Ted, did Friday.

Fired Shotgun At Husband

Wife Fined $300, Put On Probation

Bucks County Judge John P. Fullam yesterday found a 37-year-old Quakertown woman guilty of two counts of assault and battery, and wantonly pointing and firing a dangerous weapon in a trial without jury in Bucks County Criminal Court.

Judge Fullam fined the defendant, Mrs. Helen McGinley of Pumping Station Rd., $300 and placed her on a year's probation. A charge of assault with intent to kill was dropped.

Mrs. McGinley's husband, Bernard Max McGinley, testified his wife pointed an fired a 12-gauge shotgun at him following an argument at their home last Dec. 9. He said he and his wife had been arguing after returning home from a local bar and that upon arrival he and Mrs. McGinley's son by a former marriage,Thomas barnes, 17, exchanged blows in a bedroom.

Boy Pushed Him

He said that the boy pushed or knocked him down a flight of steps to the first floor of the home, and that he decided "to leave for good." As he was pulling his car out of the driveway, McGinley said, he saw his wife standing to the right side of the auto with his shotgun in her hand. He said he then heard a shot and fell down on the seat with pellet wounds of

Five Killed In Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI) — European gunmen killed at least five Arabs today in the tense Algiers working class district of Bab-El-Oued. Officials immediately ringed the area with a cordon of troops to head off further violence.

Government security officials said they feared the slayings would touch off a wholesale wave of counter-incidents. They blamed the killings on the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS) which is sworn to keep Algeria French.

The slayings in Algiers and other incidents of violence throughout Algeria sent the 1962 casualty toll soaring to 1,057 dead and 1,790 wounded.

France's top man in Algeria, meanwhile began the difficult

No Problem For Women

Doctor Blasts Men On 'False Senility'

CHICAGO (UPI)—A doctor said today that many men suffer from "false-senility" when they should be beginning a second career.

Dr. Wilder Penfield, writing in the current issue of a University of Chicago publication, said the "time for the old dog to perform new tricks" may come after retirement.

"The time for retirement should be reorganized and renamed," Penfield said. "It is the time for embarking on a new career—the last career, perhaps, but not necessarily a less enjoyable one; not perhaps, a less useful one to society."

Note Sent Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy, following a telephone conference with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, has turned down Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's tough new bid for a summit conference to open the March disarmament meeting in Geneva.

Officials said the President, in a note that probably will be delivered in Moscow today, again urged Khrushchev to send Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to Geneva instead of continuing to demand a summit meeting.

The State Department relayed Kennedy's latest message to the American Embassy during the night after the President Friday night approved the text at his weekend headquarters in Palm Beach, Fla. It was expected the text would be made public here as soon as U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson has confirmed he has delivered it.

Talks With Macmillan

A few hours before Kennedy approved the text of the message that rejected Khrushchev's long and argumentative Thursday note, he talked the situation over with Macmillan by Transatlantic telephone. Macmillan expressed concern over the fact that the State Department Thursday night issued a public statement turning down Khrushchev's latest bid without first consulting London or awaiting Soviet release of the text.

Macmillan, who also received a copy of the Russian proposal, was understood to be sending his own rejection.

Officials here discounted London reports that Macmillan was urging "more flexibility" in dealing with Khrushchev's proposal.

Urges Prompt Answer

Kennedy was understood in his new message to have urged Khrushchev to give a prompt yes-or-no answer to the proposal the President and Macmillan made Feb. 7 for holding a British-American Soviet foreign ministers meeting just prior to the opening of

Glenn's Parade To Be Televised

NEW YORK (UPI)—Live coverage of Lt. Col. John Glenn's visit to Washington Monday will be provided by the three major radio and television networks.

The news departments of the American Broadcasting Co., Columbia Broadcasting System and National Broadcasting Co. announced Friday their full coverage will begin about 11 a.m. EST.

It will include the arrival of America's first orbital spacemen at Andrews Air Force Base, the motorcade and parade to the White House and Capitol Hill and Glenn's address to a joint session of Congress.

Does Atomic Waste Pose A Threat?

Atomic waste is bound to escape from our nuclear-powered ships, and as the number of these ships increases, so will the amount of waste.

How serious a threat will this be? Could it possibly reach man through the fish we eat? Correspondent Jerry Sheehan discusses this problem and how scientists are battling to control it, on Page 7, today's Courier-Times feature page.

the 18-nation disarmament conference on March 14 in Geneva.

American officials said Khrushchev's summit campaign may be designed to try to dissuade Kennedy from making his announcement, expected next week, that the United States is going to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

Khrushchev may be preparing they added, to torpedo the disarmament meeting if Kennedy, as expected, announces the resumption of atmospheric tests.

In any event, the Khrushchev propaganda approach has dimmed hopes among western officials for any real progress on disarmament at Geneva.

sity, wrote in the quarterly journal, Midway.

He said that many retired men suffer "from a delusion of incompetence, not from incompetence itself: a retirement neurosis, pseudo-senility."

He said women rarely suffer from this because, perhaps, they are either less easily deluded or have the second career of housekeeping available after the family is raised or their professional work is over.

"The theory that the man or woman of sixty has nothing more to contribute to society during the ten or twenty years of active life that remain to him or her is wrong. The belief that men in later years cannot learn new skills and education men new professions is false."

The adage that you cannot teach an old dog new tricks "is not true—not for men, and not for dogs either," he said.

Penfield, in his "retirement," has written a novel and a number of articles.

Ill At Ease Once

During a long press conference Friday afternoon, Glen seemed at ease only when space agency officials were discussing their future plans for him.

James E. Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said that Glenn would be more in the public view than was the case with sub-orbital astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil (Gus) Grissom.

Webb also did not rule out overseas trips for Glenn, although he did not say specifically that they would be made. The subject came up when a reporter asked Glenn whether he would object to making such tours, as did Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin.

After his orbital flight, Gagarin became a powerful propaganda weapon for the Russians.

Glenn declined to answer the question. He said no such trips were planned, but, with a vaguely troubled look on his face, added that many decisions on this still had to be made.

Asked whether that meant they would not have a settlement by their March 1 target date, Cooper replied: "I think we have made our statement on that."

Chief Kirby Testifies In Taxi Case

Falls Township Police Chief Franklin Kirby yesterday testified that Trenton Taxi Operator James V. Scarpone was denied a township taxi license because he has a record of criminal arrests and convictions.

Kirby testified for the township at a hearing on an equity suit in Bucks County Court. Scarpone, 47, is asking the court to ban the township from enforcing the ordinance requiring a permit to pick up fares or to make the township grant him a license.

He secured a temporary injunction when he filed the suit. Scarpone also is appealing a conviction and fine for violating the ordinance by operating in the township without a permit.

Business High

Scarpone, represented by Doylestown Attorney Frank N. Gallagher, said 80 per cent of his business consists of answering telephone calls to go to the Fairless Works of U. S. Steel Corp. to take sailors from the ore ships to Trenton.

Chief Kirby read a report from the Federal Bureau of Investigation giving Scarpone's criminal record. It included a conviction for grand larceny for which he served two months in the Mercer County Workhouse in 1938. But Scarpone said he was convicted for receiving stolen goods he did not know were stolen.

Kirby, questioned by Township Solicitor Samuel M. Snipes, said Scarpone's application for a township license was denied early this year. It was not denied because Scarpone is not a Bucks County resident, Kirby said.

Filed Suit

Scarpone, in his suit last week, said the ordinance is unconstitutional because it restricts licenses to Bucks County residents and United States citizens. It also bans a license to persons convicted of "crimes involving moral turpitude."

Scarpone submitted sheets compiled by his Trenton dispatcher showing that in December, 1961, he answered 42 calls to the Fairless Works, December was "a light month," he said.

Judge Lawrence A. Monroe rontinued the temporary injunction, pending the outcome of the case. It will next be heard in argument court.

Watching him were 13 Communist police who manned a post opposite the West's checkpoint. A jack-booted captain and lieutenant were among them. Only sidearms were visible, but West Berlin police said two Communist policemen armed with machine pistols were stationed behind the wall.

Dozens of East Berliners watched the attorney general from apartment windows as he inspected the wall. Several waved at him although East Berliners are discouraged from showing any friendliness to Western visitors.

Assistant District Attorney Edward G. Biester Jr. introduced photographs to show that the pumpkin ball charge entered through the right side of the windshield.

McGinley said he was in for the wounds in Sacred Heart Hospital Allentown, and Dr. Roger R. Stringer, an interne at the hospital confirmed this.

Followed Husband

Mrs. McGinley, an employe of a Quakertown shirt factory, told the court that she followed McGinley down the steps after the fight with her son, Thomas. She said that the shotgun had been lying on the dining room table where McGinley had left after returning from a hunting trip that morning.

She said that McGinley picked up the weapon and that she succeeded in getting it from him. She said that he then left the home and she followed him outside, gun in hand. The weapon went off, Mrs. McGinley said, when her other son, John, 18 pulled her away from the driveway in order to prevent her from being struck by McGinley's automobile.

She Loaded Gun

However, State Trooper George A. Froio, testified that Mrs. McGinley had told him that she loaded the shotgun before going out to the driveway.

Biester also produced a statement signed by Mrs. McGinley, wherein she admitted loading the weapon.

"I felt sure I didn't load the gun," Mrs. McGinley testified.

Under cross examination by Isadore Gottlieb, Philadelphia defense attorney, McGinley said he had twice been arrested for striking Mrs. McGinley since their marriage in 1957.

"How often did you beat your wife," Gottlieb saked McGinley.

"How often did she have it coming," he asked in return.

Clerk Critical In N.J. Robbery

BORDENTOWN, N.J. UPI — A night clerk at the Laurel Notch Motel was beaten senseless late last night by an assailant who escaped with $200 in receipts.

The clerk, William C. Rahilly, 62, of Wrightstown, was reported in critical condition at St. Francis Hospital in Trenton. He was on the danger list and was given last rites.

Rahilly was found semi-conscious in the motel office on Rt. 206, Bordentown Township, by his housekeeper, Mrs. Carrie Hodson, 56, and Henry Kepner, 38, who had come to the office to relieve Rahilly at midnight.

State police said Rahilly was incoherent but mentioned that a young man walked into the office and everything else happened very quickly. The clerk was beaten with a pipe of some kind, police said.

Bristol Man Sentenced For Stealing

Charles F. Moltensen, 21, of Bristol, was sentenced to a month to a year in Bucks County Prison by Judge Lawrence A. Monroe yesterday when he admitted taking $125 from Pirolli's Service Station, in Bristol Borough.

The sentence dates back to his arrest and imprisonment Jan. 25 making him eligible for parole Monday.

Borough Patrolman James Torto said Moltensen took the money early Jan. 25, after spending an hour there, chatting with the attendant.

Was Unemployed

Moltensen said he took the money because he was unemployed and needed money to pay his bills. Since August, 1960, he had "lived on credit," he said.

The defendant formerly worked in a Doylestown Chemical Factory, he said, but lost the job when he was injured in an automobile accident, in May, 1960. He had roomed six weeks at the Keystone Hotel, Bristol, he said, but was removed Jan. 24 for not paying his rent.

Midwest Has Snow; Rain Pelts Penna.

By United Press International

Winter smacked the northland from coast to coast with snow and freezing rain today, while Dixie recovered from a rash of tornadoes and wind-whipped rainstorms.

Heavy snow warnings shot up from northern ohio to western New York as the storm that dumped up to 7 inches of the white stuff on the Midwest moved eastward toward New England. Bradford, Pa., was blanketed with 7 inches of snow during the night, while 5 inches fell on South Bend, Ind., Cleveland and Akron, Ohio, and Olean, N.Y.

Braces For Snow

The snow lingered as far south as Kansas and Missouri. St. Joseph, Mo., braced for up to eight inches of snow today, while Athinson, Kan., dug out from beneath the same amount, which fell Friday.

To the west, scattered snow swirled from the northern Pacific coast during the night across the Rockies and into the north and central plains.

The added misery of sub-zero cold plagued the Dakotas, Wyoming and Montana, with Cutbank in the latter state recording 14 below. Colder temperatures were in store for the Great Plains today.

Rains Soak Pennsylvania

To the south of the snowy belt Friday night, heavy rains soaked parts of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. More than an inch was recorded at Lockbourne Air Force Base in Columbus, Ohio, Parkersburg, W.Va., and Pittsburgh, Pa.

The storms which lashed Dixie Friday carried tornadoes into Mississippi. The windy violence leveled three buildings and caused an estimated $75,000 damage in Harmontown, Miss. Another twister demolished five homes and damaged 40 other structures in two small communities near the state's border with Tennessee, which was struck from west to east by the hard rains and damaging winds.

Gallagher Is Still Unopposed

Apparently Democratic Assemblyman James J.A. Gallagher is still unopposed in his quest for a third term.

About 70 Democratic committeepeople and workers from the Second District attended a meeting last night called by former Bucks Democratic Chairman John T. Welsh and when the meeting was over no other candidate was endorsed.

The session was mainly a question and answer meeting designed to sound out the feelings of the committeepeople about Gallagher.

Welsh is miffed at Gallagher because of the assemblyman's alignment with Welsh's arch rival John C. Mulligan, the present county chairman.

Attends Meeting

Gallagher attended last night's meeting and, according to an informed source, apparently had the backing of most of the committeepeople.

"There was no question about Gallagher's qualifications," one Welsh confederate said this morning, "It was just his playing politics."

Last night's meeting was held at the Fairless Hills Community Center. The meeting was closed to members of the press.

Welsh this morning declined to say whether he arrived at any conclusions as a result of the meeting. He did say, however, that he has no candidate to oppose Gallagher.

"The meeting was merely intended to sound out the feelings of the committee people," he said, "and it was helpful to me." No future meetings have been scheduled, Welsh said.

Fumes Victim Reported Good

Four-year-old Stephen Myers, revived by patrolmen yesterday after being overcome by gas fumes at his Levittown home, is reported in good condition today at the Lower Bucks County Hospital.

Stephen was overcome when the fumes seeped into his bedroom at 9 Middle Road from the adjoining garage where his father, Edgar, took his own life.

Bristol Township Patrolmen Charles J. Haines and Edward J. Martin revived the child by giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Attempts to revive the father failed. Edgar Myers, 30, had been found unconscious on the front seat of his car.

fight and request that the various county chairmen be allowed to present their poll findings in a general meeting with the state Republican chairman. In our opinion such an expression would go far toward re-establishing our party's unity."

Followed GOP Parleys

The Friday meeting followed these two high-level GOP parleys Thursday, both designed to bring harmony to the party:

—A huddle of Republican brass in Chester after which state chiarman George I. Bloom said he was "still hopeful" on the prospects of unity.

—The meeting of seven other county Republican chairmen here urging both front runners to drop out and throw their weight behind U.S Rep. William W. Scranton.

On the surface, the two major opposing factions seemed unmoved by the maneuvering. Both U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott and state Superior Court Judge Robert E. Woodside fired off statements indicating they would not drop out and continuing to blame one another for the present strife.

Woodside Linked To Scott

Cumberland County Republican Chairman Oliver J. Dickey, a central figure in both the Thursday and Friday county leader huddles, said the central Pennsylvanians could "enthusiastically support" Scranton if the others quit the race.

Scranton has offered himself as a candidate for governor if all sides could get behind him. However, the Woodside camp has linked the congressman with Scott.

CAMDEN, (UPI)—Attorney Max Gibbs, 45, Havertown, Pa., was cleared Friday of charges he participated in a baby-selling conspiracy.

Superior Court Judge W. Orvyl Schalick squashed conspiracy charges against Gibbs after authorities said he apparently was drawn into the matter innocently.

Alexander S. Segal, 53, a disbarred Philadelphia attorney, was convicted last September of accepting money to place the child of a Camden woman with a Havertown couple. Gibbs had been engaged by the Havertown couple in the adoption proceedings.

Sucked Out Of Hatch

Pilot Falls 31,000 Feet To Death In Sea

WESTOVER AFB, Mass. (UPI) —The commander of a B52 jet bomber was believed killed Friday night when he was sucked out of a hatch near Thule, Greenland and fell almost six miles into the sea below.

The name of the victim was withheld by the Air Force pending notification of kin.

A minor electronic difficulty had been noted while the plane was on a training mission, the Air Force said. The commander was attempting to correct the trouble when the navigator's escape hatch was jettisoned accidentally at 31,000 feet over Baffin Bay, causing the commander to be drawn through the opening.

The eight-jet bomber had left this base earlier in the day on a training flight. The plane is assigned to the 99th Bombardment Wing here.

The co-pilot, Lt. William E. Gilchrist, 26, of Albert City, Bueno Vista, Iowa, circled the airfield at Thule for three and a half hours to burn up fuel before landing.

Other crewmen aboard were identified as Maj. Franklin C. Trumpeter, of Monaca, Pa., radar operator; Lt. Leonard J. Ratzman of Euclid, Ohio, navigator; Lt. William E. Whitney of Gleasondale, Mass.; S. Sgt. Donald Duncan of Union, Mo., gunner, and Lt. Col. Charles Schofield of Oceanside, San Diego, Calif., staff navigator.
